Kenosha County Parks to offer another busy schedule of summer programs for all ages

Kenosha County Parks is offering another action-packed summer of free community activities, County Executive Samantha Kerkman announced today.

The Warrior Poet Yoga Series kicked off the season back in May, offering free yoga classes at a different park every Saturday and Sunday, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The rest of the regularly scheduled weekly activities in the parks are set to launch the week of June 13 at Petrifying Springs Park. These include Yoga in the Park and Movie Nights in the Park.

Kenosha County Parks is also planning to bring back special events this year, including Symphony in the Garden and the Bristol Woodstock Concert Series, plus the return of the annual Picnic in the Park.

“Whether it’s these great, free, programs and events or the beautiful landscapes that are present year-round, our parks have so much to offer to our residents and visitors,” Kerkman said. “I encourage people to get out this summer and explore all that’s available.”
