Kenosha County's Brookside Care Center now accepting long-term care applications

Kenosha County's Brookside Care Center now has beds available for long-term Medicaid and memory care and is accepting residency applications, Administrator Lynda Bogdala announced today.

"Our staffing levels are now allowing us to admit additional long-term residents," Bogdala said. "We have some beds available at this time, and we anticipate more coming online in the near future."

The county-owned Brookside is a 154-bed facility that offers long-term skilled nursing and short-term rehabilitation care. In recent years, national publications have honored it as being among the best nursing homes in Wisconsin.

"We are excited to be able to grow our census of long-term residents for the first time in recent memory," Bogdala said. "We encourage families seeking compassionate long-term care to reach out and see what we have to offer."

The uptick in staffing follows steps taken to improve the county's ability to attract and retain employees, said County Board Chairman Gabe Nudo. This included the board's adoption of a classification and compensation study that established a more competitive wage structure in departments across the county.

"These efforts already appear to be paying off, and I'm pleased that Brookside is now able to expand its long-term care services," said Nudo, who is also a member of the Brookside Board of Trustees.

Robert W. Pitts, chairman of the Board of Trustees agreed.

"Brookside is a special place that is a point of pride for Kenosha County. It is the community's nursing home of choice, and we're proud to be able to increase the number of people we can serve with high-quality long-term care.
